Mrs. Marjory McLeod Passes After Brief Illness

Had Been a Faithful Community Worker in Past Years; Served On School Board, Red Cross, Women's Institute.

Coleman mourns today the loss of one of its beloved citizens and one, who, in past years was a hard and faithful worker in the community in the person of Mrs. Marjory Jane McLeod, aged 82.

Deceased had attended St. Paul's 36th anniversary supper on Monday, April 20, and was taken ill early Tuesday morning, necessitating the doctor's attention. On Monday last she was taken to hospital, death coming Tuesday afternoon.

She was born at New Glasgow, N.S., and in her youth was a telegrapher on a railway line in that province. In 1880 she was married to Mr. Andrew McLeod at Westville, N.S. They came west with their family in 1886 settling first at Roseland. In 1903 they took up residence at Michel and in 1908 they made Coleman their home and have resided here since.

Her activities for community welfare had been many. During the first war she took the presidency of Coleman Red Cross and held that position till the branch disbanded in 1928. She was twice president of the Women's Institute in the early twenties when that organization dealt with much influence in civic affairs. She was also one of the moving spirits in the institute when it undertook to raise funds to build a swimming pool alongside the river. She was a life member of St. Paul's Missionary Society and was a staunch supporter of St. Paul's United church, attending its functions right up to the eve of her last illness.

She was also president for many years of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid. She was a charter member of Minerva Chapter of the Eastern Star and held the office of worthy patron at one time. In the early twenties she served two terms on the local school board and earned the respect of her colleagues.

The funeral will be held on Friday, May 1, from the Funeral Home and proceed to the United church at 3 p.m. where funeral services will be held. Interment will be in the local union cemetery.

Surviving are the husband and three sons, Rod, of Mercoal, Herdman, of Edmonton and Fraser, of Calgary, one brother, A. C. Fraser, of Sydney, N.S., 20 grand-children and 3 great grandchildren.

QUARTS OF MILK BOOSTED 1 CENT

Authorized By Public Utility Commissioners.

The local milk inspector has informed the Press that The War Times Price Board has authorized the Alberta Board of Public Utility Commissioners to issue an order authorizing milk to be sold at 12 cents per quart and 7 cents per pint in the Crow's Nest Pass area starting Friday morning May 1, 1942.

In the case of producers supplying milk to a dairy plant, the 1-cent increase goes entirely to the producer.

'Cameronians' Try Hand at Reporting

Write Reports on Preparation Of Parcels Sent to Former Cameron School Pupils Now in Uniform.

This week upon gaining the information that Cameron school's junior Red Cross had forwarded another 29 parcels to former students now wearing His Majesty's uniform. The Journal asked Miss A. Yuill for some details regarding the shipment. It was proposed that the junior Red Cross secretary write the report. However, the entire class wanted to furnish the information and as a result an essay contest was held, the winners to have their essays published in The Journal. Judges were Miss Yuill and the Misses Margaret and Ethel Dunlop. Here are the winning essays:

SOLDIERS' PARCELS

On Friday, April 24, The Cameronian members of the Junior Red Cross sent parcels to all the ex-pupils who were members of grade VI or VII in Cameron school. The Juniors earned part of the money by selling tickets for the Senior Red Cross, Bruno Rinaldi and Ronald Collins donated cookies, Jack Davies donated candy and Miss Yuill donated three kinds of cookies and Edna Morris helped to bake cookies and cup cakes. Each one in the class donated two chocolate bars. Nearly everybody packed a parcel. In the overseas parcels they sent 1 tube of toothpaste, 1 bar of soap, 2 bags of tea, 2 chocolate bars, package gum, lifesavers, cookies and cup cakes, and canned coffee essence. Lorna McDold and Millie Bublinski wrote addresses on the boxes, Josephine Mizara, Albina Soroff and Georgina Groszko helped Miss Yuill tie the parcels. Rudy Yelliga and Jack Gamache carried some parcels to the post office. Aloise Krywiol and Dan Daly's will be made up and sent later—George Groszko.

SOLDIERS' PARCELS

On Friday, April 24, "The Cameronians" members of the Junior Red Cross packed 29 parcels for all pupils who had reached grade VI or grade VII in Cameron school. They earned part of the money by selling tickets. Each child donated two chocolate bars, Ronald Collins and Bruno Rinaldi donated.

Many Inspected Army Train on Saturday

Sleet Storm Kept Many From Visiting Train From Pass Towns; Civic Officials Headed Parade.

Sleet, in its heaviest and wettest form, did everything in its power to spoil carefully laid plans to receive the army train on Saturday evening by the local reception committee. However, local citizens turned out splendidly and many were on hand to greet the train when it arrived at the local depot at approximately 6 o'clock.

The parade which started from Central school grounds at 6 o'clock, and led by the town band, marched through the main streets was fairly lengthy and included Mayor Antroub, company officials, clergy, Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary, Air Cadets, Girl Guides, school children, next-of-kin of enlisted men, St. John Ambulance and member of various societies. The parade was headed by the Union Jack carried by R. Watson and deeper in the parade by a Union Jack carried by Mrs. W. Marland of the Ladies' Auxiliary, B.E.S.L.

The businessmen co-operated splendidly with the decoration committee and flags and bunting were to be seen all along main street. The C.P.R. depot was also gaily decorated with flags and bunting and a large welcome sign strung across the main approach leading to the depot.

Figures are not available as to how many passed through the train and the Legion will not have them till later in the week. It is known that more than 1,400 had passed through during the first hour.

Equipment on the train showed to what purpose the money of Canadians is used in building machines similar to those on display so that the Allied nations can get into a position of equality with the enemy. There was too much hurry on the part of the train attendants and citizens were given little or no time to look at the equipment. The searchlight was the main object of interest as could stand on the embankment alongside the track and watch it in action.

The reception committee expresses thanks to the band members, John Kerr for the use of his band wagon and those citizens taking part in the parade for making the train reception the success it was.

WEDDINGS

GEORGE - ROBERTS
A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United church manse, Wednesday, April 22, at 1:30 p.m., when Cyril Alice George and Thelma Norma Roberts, both of Cranbrook, B.C., were united in marriage. Mr. John Richard George, a brother of the groom, of Cranbrook, and Mrs. Irma Laurie, of Grows Nest, were the official witnesses. The groom is employed at the Kimberly mines. The young couple will continue to reside at Cranbrook.

ROBINSON - BEVERIDGE

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at Central United church, Calgary, on Saturday, April 25, when Betty Beveridge, of Coleman, became the bride of Jack Robinson, of Calgary. Mr. A. Beveridge gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride was dressed in a coat dress of dusty rose with navy blue accessories and a corsage of sweethearts and snapdragons. Mrs. R. Robinson, sister-in-law of the groom, was matron of honor and was dressed in powder blue with a corsage of tea roses.

Mrs. A. Beveridge, the bride's mother, wore a russet afternoon dress with a corsage of Talsiman roses.

After the ceremony the wedding party proceeded to the York Hotel where the reception was held. The couple later left for Vancouver and on their return will reside in Calgary.

Crescent Shows will come to Coleman on May 14, 15, 16.

Miss Lila Bowser, of Islay, Alberta, was the recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thomas.

McKen Hunter, former Colemanite and for many years a guest of the Empire Hotel, Calgary, has taken up residence in the Ward Block, Suite 3, Calgary.

Local Red Cross Prepares For Campaign Drive

Quota Set at $900; Town Divided into Districts; Organizations to be Asked To Donate.

Plans were made at a meeting of the Red Cross on Tuesday evening for the drive to raise $900 as Coleman's quota of the $9 millions to be raised throughout Canada for the Canadian Red Cross.

The town has been divided into districts and a committee appointed to canvass each house in their respective districts.

Graftonville: J. E. Kirk and A. A. Park.

Bloomers Road and The Flats: Mrs. W. L. Rippon, Mrs. Lant and H. Sharrett.

South of tennis courts and east of centre street: Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. J. Kellock.

North of tennis courts and east of centre street: Mrs. A. Walker and Mrs. R. Morris.

West of centre street to bluff: Mrs. J. Lonsbury and Mrs. E. Hill.

East Coleman, north of river: Mrs. A. E. Graham and M. Opulski.

East Coleman, south of river: Mrs. A. Kolber and W. Dutil.

West Coleman: Mrs. A. Montalbet, Mrs. Daeof and Miss Yuill.

Cardabelle: Mrs. S. C. Short and Mrs. J. McDonald.

Willow Drive: W. Kubica and A. Balloch.

Sentinel: Miss Yuill and O. Barlingham.

All local organizations will be approached to donate towards the campaign. This is the only campaign of a national nature that will be allowed by the federal government. Other organizations such as the I.O.B.E., Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, etc., will be asked by the government. The Canadian Red Cross requires $9 millions to care for the war sick and wounded as well as bombed victims and it is up to the citizens of Canada to see that they raise the Dominion quota. Coleman with a $900 quota should have little difficulty if everyone donates as they should. DONATE GENEROUSLY when the committee calls at your home.

Around The Town

George Derbyshire is to be congratulated on his fine job of getting the businessmen to co-operate with him in decorating main street for the army trains arrival. The large majority of the businessmen took pains to make their decorations attractive. However, there were a few who lifted the window an inch and stuck out a small flag.

Certain it is that the authorities responsible for authorizing the army train to go on tour never asked for public opinion on the matter. It was surprising to hear the local public condemn the tour as a waste of public funds and keeping much needed equipment from the men at the front. When one thinks back on the messages given to the public during the Victory Loans and War Savings drives telling the people how urgent the need was for money for the war effort and then see an army train with $3 millions of equipment, 61 officers and men and rolling stock it makes these "urgent" messages look pretty empty. However, there is no doubt that the government needs the money; it is just a case of someone with influence authorizing this tour without taking time out to think sanely. It certainly served no purpose here as far as recruiting is concerned. Theatres and newspapers have been showing the public the same machinery on view here last Saturday for many years.

Many citizens have been busy the past week cleaning their yards, back alleys and avenues of refuse accumulated during the winter. The police inspection will take place shortly.

Ash cans on second street west should be hidden and not placed so conspicuously on the main highway. Many strangers motor through here and it has been said that the first impression is a lasting impression and when one sees ash cans on the main highway the impression given the traveller is, to say the least, not so good.

Mrs. Harry Gate, sr., was admitted to hospital on Tuesday evening.

FORMER LOCAL DRUGGIST DIED AT BROCKET FRIDAY

W. Burpee Steeves Had Drug Store Here From 1937 to 1940; Died While at Work.

Coleman friends heard with regret Friday morning of the sudden death of William Burpee Steeves, 41, caused by a heart attack while working in his office at Brocket. Deceased was clerk of the Peigan Indian Agency offices for the past two years.

He had operated a drug store in the premises now occupied by the Haysom Drug store from 1937 to 1940 when he left Coleman for Calgary and then to Brocket where he secured the position of clerk at the Indian Agency offices.

Born in Harvey, New Brunswick, Mr. Steeves came to Alberta some 36 years ago with his parents. Left to mourn are his wife and one son. Funeral services were conducted on Monday at the Burnside cemetery by Cornerstone Masonic Lodge of High River.

Lions Club to Stage Monster Auction Sale

Every Coleman Home to be Solicited by Lions And Air Cadets For Old Pieces of Furniture, Radios, Tools, Etc.; Auctioneer Newly Engaged From Lethbridge.

Coleman Lions Club went into high gear this week in order to successfully promote their monster auction sale which will be held on the Grand Union hotel parking lot on Saturday, May 9.

The Lions and Air Cadets are soliciting every home with the intention of getting every household to donate some piece of furniture, tool, machine, etc., that he has no further use for but which may be of use to some one else.

Following the canvass of the homes an inventory will be made by the auction committee as to what goods are available for the sale. The town truck, saddled by a huge banner advertising the auction will be sent to pick up the goods. These will be stored till the day of the sale.

Auctioneer J. W. Newby, of Lethbridge, has been engaged to take charge of the auction aided by the Lions. Proceeds will help the local Air Cadets to buy equipment.

A dance will be sponsored in the community hall that evening by the Red Cross. Edie's orchestra will provide the music.

The refreshment booth will be offered to the Ladies' Auxiliary B.E.S.L. The sale is being widely advertised in the papers, theatres from Bellevue to Natal, and by banners, and with the aid of the weather man on that afternoon, it should be a successful sale.

In every home there is something for which the family has no longer any use. It may be an old chair, an old gramophone, electric ironer, etc. Bring it out of cold storage and have it ready for the young man who will call at your house. It may be of use to some jack-of-all-trades who can fix it up to suit his purpose.

HAROLD WILLETTTS APPOINTED ASSISTANT FIRE CHIEF

Ten Applications Received; Duties to Commence Immediately.

A special meeting of the council on Monday evening ten applications were considered for the position of assistant fire chief, a position left vacant by the departure of W. R. Burrows to the Pacific coast. The successful candidate was Harold Willettts, of Seventh street, and a resident of the town for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Willettts and daughter will move into the town hall apartments in the near future.

Additional business done at this meeting was to approve the application of Crescent Shows to appear here on May 14, 15, 16.

Mrs. J. Park entertained at bridge on Tuesday evening, two tables were in play. Winners were Mrs. J. Jackson, Mrs. A. B. Westworth and Mrs. T. Holstead.

The Misses Cecilia and Winnifred Mitchell left Saturday evening for Lethbridge and commenced their duties as nurses-in-training at St. Michael's hospital on Sunday.

Coleman Voted in the Affirmative in Plebiscite

"Yes" Vote Gained a 2 to 1 Majority By Local Citizens; 75 of Voters Said to Have Marked Their Ballots.

Coleman, in line with the rest of the province and the Dominion with the exception of Quebec, voted in favor of releasing the Federal government from past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service. 894 voted "yes" and 405 voted "no." There were 18 rejected ballots.

Polling day was very quiet and with the exception of the fire bell ringing every half hour, one, unaware that it was Plebiscite day, would never have known that anything was going on in town.

H. C. McBurney, local chairman of the vote "yes" committee, had six cars at work bringing voters to the polls. His committee of twelve were on their toes throughout the day and were responsible for many going to the polls.

Here is how the voting went according to the different polls throughout the town.

Community hall where two districts are included: yes, 476; no, 214; rejected 11.

St. Pauls church hall: yes, 221; no 88; rejected 5.

Bobbitt's: yes, 133; no, 76; rejected, 2.

Roid's residence: yes, 64; no, 27. No spoiled ballots.

The country has voted in favor of releasing the government's hands from past commitments. It is now the hope of many that the government will lead instead of being led.

Elks to Sponsor Amateur Contest May 25

Contestants Asked to Place Entries Early; Good Prizes to be Awarded Winners

Coleman Elks will sponsor an Amateur contest on Monday, May 25, in the Community hall. An advertisement appears elsewhere in this issue urging all prospective candidates to place their entries early.

Reason for the early placement of entries is in order to determine the various classes of entertainment to be presented and so have them printed on the posters in order to give the maximum publicity.

Prizes have to be purchased for the various class winners and only upon the early placement of entries will the contest committee know just how many prizes to purchase. Prospective contestants will no doubt co-operate with the committee and place their entries early. See advt.

P.O. G. W. Shaeffer, of Macleod air school, will be M.C. He will be remembered as the young man who did such a splendid job as M.C. on the program in which Miss Sunshine took part in opening the Second Victory Loan. A number of air port artists will accompany him to Coleman.

TOWN OF COLEMAN Proclaims Civic Holiday Friday, May 1st

By order, TOWN COUNCIL

The Press And The War

It would be quite impossible for one to over-estimate the work which is being carried on by the newspapers of Canada in the furtherance of our war effort. The public naturally relies on our newspapers for information from day to day and week to week on the progress of the war. The fact that in this country we have a sane press, not generally given to coloring the news, is a matter that must give us cause for congratulation. It means that we can usually give full credence to the statements about the war which appear in our newspapers. It is a free press in nowise controlled or regimented. In the Axis-dominated countries there is no longer any such thing as a free press, with the result that the newspaper is but the mouth-piece of its overlords. One of the advantages of our democracy is that our newspapers are free to reflect the opinions of the people on any matter pertaining to the welfare of the country. During this critical period of our history, newspapers have an added responsibility, as there is need for a stabilizing influence in directing public opinion. That the press of this country has full knowledge of this trust, and is ably fulfilling this duty, is self-evident.

A Responsible Task

One of the tasks that has fallen to the press has been to stress the Allied war aim, and to deal with any misconceptions that may have existed from time to time. The press can also wield a powerful influence in maintaining cordial relations with our Allies. Through the medium of the press the public is kept well informed in respect to the details of the government's various war regulations. Newspapers gladly lend their columns for this purpose, and mainly in this way their readers are made familiar with the different restrictions imposed. Comparatively few people appear to realize the high responsibility that is placed upon the newspapers during wartime. Few other lines of endeavor offer the same opportunity for maintaining the public morale during the stress of war. In addition the publisher must be ever on his guard to avoid giving out any information that might be of possible value to the enemy. He must weigh and sift all the material that enters into the composition of his paper. An item of news that would be of interest to readers might also contain information that would prove valuable to the enemy.

The Weekly Press

No small credit is due to the weekly newspaper for its valuable contribution to the war effort. In many cases, working under the most difficult conditions, it has carried on, doing its part in holding high the torch of freedom. In the Western Provinces the larger part of the population lives on the land, or dwell in the small towns and villages. It naturally follows that the weekly newspaper is the principal medium for the distribution of information both local and provincial. The government, in endeavoring to further the war effort has recognized this fact and has frequently expressed its appreciation for the invaluable assistance rendered in the matter of dissemination of information that is vital to the public interest. As a general rule, the weekly newspaper is obliged to operate with limited equipment and a comparatively small staff. Working under many handicaps, it nevertheless continues to carry on, bearing its full share of responsibility during these critical days. Not a few publishers have already enlisted in the armed forces, although the government has designated the newspaper business as one of the essential services. It is on record that the entire staff of three assistants in one weekly newspaper office has enlisted, but the publisher has decided to continue the business, and the paper will appear as usual.

To Speed Up Transport

Report From Norway Says Nazis Building Up Bicycle Army

Field Marshal von Rundstedt is building up a Nazi bicycle army in northern France and Belgium in defence against new British Commando raids and a possible invasion attempt, informed Netherlands sources in London reported on the basis of information received from their homeland.

They said Netherlands who escaped from Holland brought word that the Germans have been exploiting the large bicycle factories in the Low Countries and in Denmark to the utmost in recent weeks, taking the entire product for the army.

This move was said to be motivated by the need to speed up infantry transport while the bulk of Nazi trucks and cars are being used on the Russian front.

The refugees also reported growing anxiety among the Nazi occupation troops over the prospects of a British invasion, and said German authorities had forbidden soldiers to sing the song that still was so popular a year ago "Wir Fahren Gegen England" (We Sail Against England).

"The mental attitude of the German garrisons has changed from offence to defence," and a nervous defence at that," one Netherlands declared.

Driving Commands

Motorists Can Soon Learn How To Drive A Horse

The word "gee" means to swing to the right and the word "haw" means a swing to the left. Horses learn to obey these commands without the use of the reins. The "nigh" horse of a team is the one on the left and the "off" horse is the one on the right. The word "whoa" uttered rather loudly and distinctly means to stop, and horses are apt to obey the word promptly, especially near the end of a hard day's travel or work in the fields. When the horse-driver wants to go in reverse he pulls on the lines and shouts "back" and the well-trained horse responds.—Fort William Times-Journal.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

TRUTH ETERNAL

What we have in us of the image of God is the love of truth and justice.—Demosthenes.

Jesus answered, "... To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth.—New Testament. John 18:37.

Christ did not simply speak the truth; he was truth; truth, through and through; for truth is a thing not of words, but of life and being.—Robertson.

The ideals of primitive Christianity are high, even at our door. Truth is not lost in the mists of remoteness or the barbarisms of spiritless codes.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The greatest friend of truth is time; her greatest enemy is prejudice; and her constant companion is humility.—Colton.

Falsehood is in a hurry; it may be at any moment detected and punished; truth is calm, serene; its judgment is on high; its king cometh out of the chambers of eternity.—Joseph Parker.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

Not very much has been said yet about the Pacific Rangers, whose existence on the British Columbia coast was mentioned recently after a ministerial inspection of the coast defence was carried out.

One reason is that not very much is yet known outside of B.C.

But this much is certain. The organization of guerrilla bands composed of hunters, trappers, loggers and other denizens whose familiarity with the country coupled with their prowess at woodcraft and hunting makes them formidable adversaries is a forward move.

Many of these bands have been in existence for some time now. They were formed by the men themselves and each man is armed with his own rifle a friend he has had for years and a weapon he knows he can rely on.

They are not military formations and consist mainly of old-timers, many of them old soldiers who know a few tricks they learned in the last war. They know every nook and cranny of the ground they are prepared to defend.

In Montreal for the past two years, a somewhat similar branch of the Individual Citizen's Army has been in existence. This is known as the Mobile Force of the Civilian Protection Committee. Its functions differ from those of the Rangers to the extent that emphasis in training has been against the possibility of sabotage.

This outfit, in addition to supplying its own rifles and ammunition, also supplies cars and gasoline. Its training is based on modifications of Canadian Army Reconnaissance unit training, training hand books of the German Panzer Divisions, Tom Wittingham's useful little booklet on new methods of war and a liberal sprinkling of imagination.

The men—mostly retired middle-aged citizens who have lost much of their roundness since they started training—uniform themselves in khaki overalls and wear black berets and armlets. They have become expert in rapid mobilization street fighting, industrial plant defence and open order skirmishing around the outskirts of Montreal.

Air Raid Precautions work, under various names in different parts of the Dominion, is another branch of the Individual Citizen's Army that provides scope for willing war-workers. And many a private soldier serves in that army without belonging to any unit of any kind.

The man or woman who is unable to join the Canadian Army or to serve regularly in any of the many war organizations still has an opportunity to be of value. Between the ages of 21 and 60 they are eligible after their blood to Blood Donor Clinics of the Canadian Red Cross Society. These clinics operate in a number of cities right across the country. They are staffed by volunteers.

As a matter of fact the man or woman who cleans out the attic, removes inflammables from the cellar, and generally takes every precaution against fire, is a good private soldier in the Individual Citizen's Army.

If and when the day comes that incendiary bombs shower down on Canadian municipalities the householder who can handle his own fire is doing a good job by leaving the fire-fighters clear to handle worse blazes elsewhere.

Not much like soldiers? Well, I'm not so sure. If you were to work out the actual percentage of his time a soldier spends in fighting you would find that more, ordinary prosaic duties take up more of his time than they do of yours.

Eating takes up a fair amount of that time, for the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps sees to it that

For the last four months this excellent series, "The Individual Citizen's Army," has been written for you by Alan Maurice Irwin, an old soldier and an excellent story teller. It has given our readers a clear understanding of many puzzling things and we wish the series could be continued. Alan Irwin has, however, been "taken over" by the War Time Prices and Trade Board. Perhaps he'll find time to write further for us—we hope so—meanwhile this is the last article in the series named, "The Individual Citizen's Army."—Editor.

Russia Looks After Wounded Men When They Leave Hospital

Providing new hands, new feet and new vocations for soldiers who have lost their extremities from frostbite and wounds is the function of a novel institution on the outskirts of Moscow. One hundred and one men and a girl—she is a 17-year-old guerrilla whose left arm was destroyed in the explosion of a mine—are patients at this little hospital. Every one of them will leave the institution, sooner or later, with artificial substitutes for the parts of their bodies they have lost.

This human reconstruction is going on in many hospitals throughout the Soviet Union in which tens of thousands of wounded soldiers are receiving attention and treatment which is uniformly sanitary, efficient and up to date.

Unquestionably, the Soviet Union looks after its fighters. They receive full pay during the period of invalidism and those unable to return to the army are taught vocations commensurate with their abilities and physical condition at social insurance schools in various cities of the country. Crippled war veterans are able to work at guaranteed jobs after discharge. In addition to salaries, in their new positions they receive pensions proportionate to the severity of their injuries. every soldier no matter where he is—gets his food.

And that's where we members of the Individual Citizen's Army come in again. The soldier has to be fitter than we have to be. So we can "fall in" by being a little more careful how we "fall to" at the breakfast, lunch and dinner table.

The soldier needs to be clothed and equipped. The Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps looks after that. Right? That's where we come in again. We can make a suit last longer to provide wool for a uniform; we can change from silk to lisle hose to make more bags for cordite; we can eat less sugar to provide more quick energy for the boys overseas.

The Individual Citizen's Army? That's us!

HITLER BETRAYS HIS ANXIETY IN SPEECH ABOUT UNREST AND CONDITIONS ON HOME FRONT

London. Betraying anxiety over the condition of his home front, Hitler pointed to Russia as the decisive battlefield of the war and from a quiescent reichstag received confirmation of his power of life and death over every German. Informed London sources said this act means that not even Nazi judges or army officers now may stand between the German people and the Gestapo.

In a speech of one hour and one minute in which threats, some hint of a peace offensive, admissions of a barely escaped catastrophe in the frozen drifts of Russia and plans "for the coming winter" were strangely mixed, Hitler unfolded no new master plan or smashing blow to stem the world.

But he claimed that Germany had won a defensive winter war, and promised these actions:

1. "Fighting in the east will be continued. The Bolshevik colossus will be beaten by us so long and until such time as it has been smashed completely."

2. Against the mighty British air offensive now being waged against Germany, he promised resumption of mass air raiding of Britain "retaliating blow by blow, such as happened in 1940."

3. Increased use of submarines, already "growing in rigid sequence and rhythm," in the Atlantic where U-boats "already by far have surpassed the highest number of submarines employed during the First World War."

Reichsmarschal Goering read to the uniformed deputies a new law giving Hitler the right without regard to any existing laws or decrees to compel any officer, soldier, official, judge or other man to do his duty by all means.

"The only reason for such an action must be that Hitler and his gang, including Himmler (Heinrich Himmler, head of the Gestapo), fear civilian disturbances and are taking measures to deal with them," one informed London source said.

The law, empowering Hitler to remove any man from office or position without legal proceedings and with-out regard to any legal rights of those affected, was adopted unanimously without a word of discussion.

The brushing aside of all German laws was heralded in Hitler's address in Kroll opera house when he declared: "I therefore beg of the German reichstag, explicit confirmation that I am legally entitled to hold anyone to his duties or to sentence or cashier or oust from office and position."

GRANTING SOLDIERS LEAVE TO ENGAGE IN FARM WORK WILL NEED TO BE RESTRICTED

Ottawa. No wholesale leaves can be granted soldiers for seeding or other farm operations, Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons.

He was replying to questions from G. H. Castleden (C.C.F., Yorkton) during consideration of the war appropriation bill in committee.

Col. Ralston said he was responsible for the training and operation of the army and time was going fast. Some people said the army was not moving fast enough.

Individual cases of hardship may be taken up with regional war services boards and the district officers commanding are required to take the recommendations of these boards in granting leave to farmers. He believed serious cases are being attended to.

Col. Ralston said "I feel my responsibilities as minister of national defence will not permit me to give any wholesale release of men who have been trained or are being trained for an operation role, even for seeding operations."

To release men from training centres at various stages in their four months' course disorganizing training and meant that full use could not be made of training facilities.

There are a few units, such as depots, from which farm leaves can be granted. These have been listed and sent to district commanding officers and leaves from them are being granted.

The minister said between 41,000 and 42,000 men had enlisted in the navy, army and air force in January, tion anyone without consideration of his person or well-earned privileges who in his conscientious opinion does not fulfill his duties."

Goering gave the first hint of the anxiety through which the German high command has passed in recent months.

The winter, he said, "was full of danger, and it happened very often—I can say it now—that greater inner strength was necessary to face the daily pouring in of bad news."

DENIED TO AXIS

Latin America Now Supplying Raw Materials To United Nations

Rio De Janeiro. Latin America, a rich storehouse of raw materials, today is pouring a stream of strategic minerals and agricultural products into the arsenals of the United Nations.

The Axis, which once drew heavily upon these resources, now is cut off, while the United States and its allies, by control of the sea and wartime trade agreements, enjoy a monopoly of all the rubber, tin, manganese, mica, chrome, tungsten, copper, diamonds and lead that these countries can produce.

Item for item, many of these products match the supplies lost in Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines and other areas held by the Axis. In a long war they may well supply the extra sinews needed to win.

FOR FARM WORK

Vancouver High School Students Will Get Leave From Studies

Vancouver. The Vancouver school board has decided to give a number of high school students in grades nine, 10, 11 and 12 five months' leave from studies if they plan to work on farms during the summer.

The British Columbia government recently approved such leave as a measure to overcome a farm labor shortage.

Release of students June 1 will be contingent on scholastic ability. Students so released will return to school Nov. 1.

MORE TROOPS

Nazis Said To Be Sending Reinforcements Into France

London. A division of German parachute troops has been sent to occupied France to reinforce the garrison there, the Daily Express military correspondent Morely Richards wrote, adding there were unconfirmed reports that Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt's forces in France and the Low Countries would be reinforced with from 10 to 15 divisions.

Von Rundstedt's strength thus would be raised to about 1,000,000 men, Richards said.

Pointing out that these might be "enemy-inspired rumors," Richards said it nevertheless was "definite that units of airborne troops have turned up in occupied France and that there is evidence of troop movements westward across Germany."

FUEL RATIONING

London. Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade, said in the House of Commons the government had decided to institute household fuel rationing with the hope of reducing domestic consumption of coal by 10,000,000 tons a year. Coke, gas and electricity also will be affected.

GRATEFUL TO CANADA

New Zealand Commission Refers To Sending Of War Supplies

Washington. — New Zealand is grateful to Canada for war supplies and hopes the flow will increase, Frank Langstone, newly-appointed New Zealand high commissioner to Canada, said.

He has been in Washington several months as a special representative of the New Zealand government and hopes to leave shortly for Ottawa to take up his new job. He will be New Zealand's first high commissioner to Canada.

In a press statement, Langstone said: "As the war situation in the Pacific becomes more intensified and widespread, the mutual interest of Canada and New Zealand must inevitably become closer and our own representations in Ottawa as in Washington becomes a matter of urgent necessity and will prove of unquestionable value to New Zealand and must strengthen at this most critical period the means of inter-course and co-operation between the two dominions."

He said trade relations between Canada and New Zealand always have been on a high plane and today the important part which Canada is playing in producing essential war equipment cannot be overestimated and New Zealand's efficient war effort largely depends upon obtaining these essentials from overseas.

Figures Show Large Percentage Of Mail Gets Across Atlantic

Ottawa. — A special providence seems to look after the post office Assistant Deputy Postmaster General P. T. Coolican commented in announcing figures of mail losses on the Atlantic since the start of the war.

Only 14 losses of mail through enemy action have been reported, Coolican said, totalling 26,230 bags out of 750,000 despatched across the Atlantic.

Figures revealed by Coolican showed: Bags of mail lost by enemy action in 1939, three; in 1940, 10,345; in 1941, 12,947; and so far this year, 2,935.

ALLIED INVASION OF EUROPE IS CONSIDERED NECESSARY BY A SECTION OF OPINION

London. — The issue of an Allied invasion of Europe was sharpened by Lord Beaverbrook's militant demand for a second front and by the suggestive information that President Roosevelt had notified Prime Minister Churchill he agrees with all conclusions reached by Gen. George C. Marshall, United States chief of staff who recently visited Britain.

Mr. Roosevelt was said to have sent a message to that effect to Mr. Churchill. The nature of Gen. Marshall's conclusions was not disclosed, but while he was here he said "the time for action is near," and that Americans "inevitably soon will join the Commandos."

Lord Beaverbrook's New York speech emphasized the public's concern over what the government will do with the largest army ever assembled in Britain.

An army of between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 equipped with tanks and mechanized weapons, is co-operating, with the largest air force in Europe and is a formidable fighting machine.

Its employment in a great European campaign this summer is an urgent necessity, according to a section of the public clamoring for action now.

Lord Beaverbrook, famous publisher and lend-lease co-ordinator, is the powerful advocate of this group.

British sources said his address could not be regarded as coming from the war cabinet, but many nevertheless held it was a symptom of governmental change toward the idea of invading Europe this year.

Lord Beaverbrook's catalogue of the British power for "directing such an attack against Germany" has had an admittedly "profound effect" on those who believed Britain lacked the munitions and equipment.

Advocates of continental invasion realized the risks. Lord Beaverbrook's own Evening Standard said:

"It will not be easy. There will be difficulties and hazards and pitfalls. It will mean heavy sacrifices."

Developments in the past two months have noticeably diminished these risks in the minds of many Britons, however.

Success of the Commando raids at Braval, St. Nazaire and Euplogie in German-occupied France have demonstrated what can be accomplished by daring men with the right equipment.

The growing force of the R.A.F. offensive also has demonstrated that Britain has enough planes to protect a large landing force within fighter-plane range.

Unrest in occupied countries and evident Nazi uneasiness about the political and military defences in the west are facts "unquestionably favorable to attack in Europe," experts say.

The recent Commando raids were declared to have shown weaknesses in German defence areas which were thought to have been formidable, particularly on the "invasion coast."

Reuters news agency's diplomatic correspondent reported that after the raid on Boulogne, the German commander Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt toured the scene, severely disciplining civil and military authorities. The Reuters report added that the Germans claimed to have information that the Commandos received help from Frenchmen of the region, who prepared the way.

Experts traced an all-around slackness in the German army of occupation to two years of comparatively peaceful living in conquered territory. They said that an "especially significant" item in the Boulogne raid was the failure of the Germans to throw against the Commandos even one of the vaunted armored columns which are supposed to be the foundation of German anti-invasion precautions.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIES TO KEEP PRICE CEILING IN PLACE HAVE REACHED A HIGH FIGURE

Ottawa. Government subsidies to keep the price ceiling in place and protect the consumer from higher prices for essential commodities have amounted to $212,581 in five months, Finance Minister Halsey told the House of Commons.

There is no reason to believe they will ever reach the "fantastic" totals of several hundred million dollars "suggested in some quarters," the minister said.

In the war appropriation resolution he had included an item of $40,000,000 to cover subsidies but attempts to estimate the ultimate annual total "are likely to be unprofitable" because the deciding circumstances could not be forecast.

Mr. Halsey's statement was made in reply to repeated questions regarding subsidy payments. He gave his decision that, for the present at least, he will not release the names of the organizations receiving the subsidies.

The statement was made during consideration in committee of Mr. Halsey's war appropriation bill and at its conclusion, the committee resumed discussion on the army division of the defence departments.

Leaders of the opposition parties agreed discussion of the price-ceiling subsidies would be reserved until members had an opportunity to study the minister's statement, but there was brief comment by Joseph Harris (Con., Toronto-Danforth). He agreed that the price ceiling was necessary but said it was driving business "lean on the government."

Mr. Harris said he saw the possibility of price-ceiling operations embarrassing Canada's economy through certain people taking production off the market because they stood to "lose a few shekels." He mentioned the recent shortage of beef.

John Blackmore, New Democracy leader, said his group supported the minister in his efforts to maintain prices at a proper level, and "believe he has done a fine job."

But his "one gentle criticism" was that too little attention was paid the production element, which in some cases was not receiving enough to pay costs let alone a living for the producers. This had caused the difficult beef situation and might bring the same troubles in regard to other commodities, he said.

Mr. Halsey said subsidies paid by the commodity prices stabilization corporation, operated in conjunction with the wartime prices and trade board already have assisted in sheltering the Canadian consumer from the effect of spreading war and greater cost in obtaining imported essentials.

The subsidies are paid by the corporation after approval by the board which is in charge of the price-ceiling regulations.

The minister tabled a detailed list showing the largest single subsidy outlay to April 21 was $1,387,630 for payments to encourage milk production.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Critical of Expenses

Public opinion is against unnecessary expense incurred by the Federal government. The people have responded to appeals for Victory Loan support, though actually no sacrifice is involved, for they receive the same benefit as if they put their money in the bank or post office. There is nothing to put ourselves on the back because we raised throughout the Dominion over $900,000,000, which will be returned with interest.

But when they see an army train, reported to have $3,000,000 worth of equipment, touring the Dominion at heavy expense, and which has been on the go since February, and has possibly another month to travel, it makes them question the value of it. It is contributing nothing to the war effort. There was nothing on the train that people hadn't seen in the movies or in magazine pictures. Such publicity stunts are just useless expenditures, and many individuals remarked on the uselessness of the whole thing. Can you imagine anything more extravagant than a country at war and urging people to avoid useless expenditures, toting a 15-car train thousands of miles requiring railroad equipment badly needed for transportation of troops and goods? The whole project is absurd in the face of the conditions we are facing every day. The government advisors who conceived this exhibition on wheels should get a putty medal. It reminds us of those recruiting tours which didn't produce any or just a baker's dozen of recruits. Let's get down to brass tacks and cut out useless frills. The soldiers whose duty it was to act as attendants on the train appeared to be thoroughly "fed up" with the whole show.

A Revelation

The Plebiscite vote reveals that Canada has a large percentage of people who do not realize what total war means. The result from our viewpoint is disappointing, even though the "Yes" vote carried by a large majority in the Dominion.

In the Crows Nest Pass, particularly in Coleman, the percentage of "No" is to our mind alarming. The Plebiscite reveals that there are many whose support of Canada's war effort is at the best lukewarm, or even passive, otherwise there would not have been so many negative votes. To our mind there is nothing to crow about in this showing, and it is a mighty good thing that there are sufficient people who voted "Yes" in Coleman to give an overall majority. It tells us plainly that there is an element who do not favor a total war effort. We can imagine what the men in the armed forces from Coleman will say when they read of the result there.

We come to the conclusion that those who voted "No" are just hiding behind the skirts of those who are willing to fight. In plain words, we think it scandalous that we have so many people in our midst who apparently will not wake up to the dangers of aggression till the enemy is at our gates. Sometimes we think that we have the enemy in our midst, for he who is not with us is against us.

The time is coming when the government will have to assert its power far more forcibly than it has so far. We have got to fight or be licked, and the "No" voters will not be allowed to benefit from the sacrifices of those who have gone forth to fight their battles, and to die.

The Crows Nest Pass has many people of countries which have been crushed by Germany, which makes it the more astounding that so many of them voted "No." Of what value is Democracy to such people? They wouldn't even fight for it.

The result in Macleod town was 688 For, 74 Against. In Coleman it was 896 For, 406 Against; more than one-third of the votes cast in the latter place were negative.

The Leader is Led

Despite the result of the Plebiscite and all that it implies for and against total war effort, it seems absurd that it should have ever been held. The affirmative vote does nothing towards strengthening confidence in MacKenzie King's government; it indicates that the majority stand for an all-out war effort regardless of his promise in the 1940 election campaign. The Plebiscite to our mind shows that Mr. King lacked the determination to tell the people what should be done to meet the challenge of aggression. Now the majority has told him what to do; the people have led instead of the government, and if there is anything useful about the Plebiscite, it reveals the truth that we have a lot of people who for apparently selfish reasons voted "No."

As a wartime leader Mr. King has lacked magnetism to enthrone the people to an all-out war effort. He gave people an opportunity to vote "No" in order that his promise might not be broken. If our political leaders were all so conscientious about keeping promises and then wanted releases from them, we would have plebiscites quite often, for this is the first time in our experience of Canadian political life that we have seen such conscientiousness on the part of any political party. Which brings to mind that our own Aberhart, who wouldn't say "Yes" and he wouldn't say "No" when asked to comment on the Plebiscite, told the people if he couldn't give them $25 a month after he had been elected, he would resign. This political chicanery is just as strong in the seats of the self-righteous as in the most out-and-out professional carpet-bag politicians.

Oh! Oh!

"You have never kissed so wonderfully before, Laura. Why is that? Because we are in a Black-out?"

"No. It's because my name is Vera."

War Salvage Scrap News

At the regular meetings of Blairmore and Coleman Elks the members were addressed by the Pass scrap supervisor, F. Knapman, who asked their wholehearted support in making the salvage campaign at present in progress throughout the Pass the success that it should be.

In Blairmore the Elks will divide the town in sections and each home will be visited by a member who will impress upon the householder the importance of saving scrap for the war effort. In Coleman the local committee had undertaken this work and so it wasn't necessary for the Elks to solicit the home. However, the local antlered herd are behind the campaign 100% and will do everything in their power to aid its progress.

The Pass mines, garages, etc., have promised more than two carloads of heavy scrap metal and this will be gathered and shipped to a dealer in the very near future.

Be sure that your scrap is taken to the local depot on main street in the Sartoris Lumber yard. Hours are from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. All heavy scrap will be taken care of by the local committee when it is reported that such material is available in town.

More steel is needed for more ships, more tanks, more planes, more guns, more munitions.

Canada right now is faced with a shortage of iron and steel. During the first nine months of 1940, Canada produced about 1,500,000 tons of steel ingots; during the first nine months of 1941, she produced more than 1,750,000 tons of steel ingots; during the first nine months of 1942, she MUST produce over 2,000,000 tons of steel ingots.

Steel is not made out of thin air. It is made out of iron ore, and pig iron, and scrap iron and steel. A mill that can turn out 500 tons in a given time using iron ore and pig iron can turn out 500 tons using pig iron and scrap metal.

Mrs. Peter Sharp, of Lethbridge, formerly of Coleman, has received a cable informing her of the safe arrival of her son, Frank, in Britain.

Miss D. Thorson, of Lundbreck, and Mrs. J. Enes, of Pincher Creek, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Holstead on Friday evening.

"THE HOARDER"

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

People who buy more of anything than they currently need, and merchants who encourage them to do so, are sabotaging the war effort and are therefore public enemies.

Loyal citizens do not hoard. They buy only for their immediate needs. They cheerfully adjust their standard of living, realizing that their country's needs must come first. They do not try to gain unfair advantages over their neighbours.

Are you a hoarder or a loyal citizen? Are you hampering Canada's war effort by unnecessary buying? Or are you co-operating to the best of your ability to save Canada from such horrors as Hong Kong?

If Canadians do their duty, there will be no more hoarding. Everyone will get a fair share of the goods available. More food can be sent to Great Britain. More raw materials — more manpower — will be available for making guns, tanks, planes and other armaments to back up our armed forces.

In cases where it is advisable for you to buy in advance of your immediate requirements—such as your next season's coat supply—you will be encouraged to do so by direct statement from responsible officials.

YOUR SCRAP RUBBER is now a vital war material

Enemy action in the Far East has caused such an acute shortage of rubber that our whole war effort is in serious danger. Canada and her Allies must have control of rubber, quickly, for the armed forces, for factories, for ships. The Japanese supply is old scrap rubber, which is the only other quickly available supply is old scrap rubber, which can be reclaimed. Every citizen in Canada must do his part in collecting all the scrap rubber in the country and turning it over to the Government for war purposes. Here is how to do it.

THIS IS AN URGENT APPEAL FOR YOUR HELP

Question: Is the rubber situation really serious?

Answer: The shortage of rubber is so grave that any citizen hoarding rubber or using it unnecessarily is committing an act of disloyalty. It is now illegal to destroy any rubber article.

Question: Of what use is reclaimed rubber?

Answer: Old rubber is processed so that the rubber content is reclaimed. This reclaimed rubber is used in the manufacture of essential articles for our war effort, thus replacing crude rubber.

Question: How much scrap rubber is needed?

Answer: Fifty Million Pounds. This is a large quantity, but it MUST be found. Every old piece of rubber in Canada, no matter how small, is needed. QUICKLY.

Question: Should I turn in any usable rubber articles as well as worn out ones?

Answer: Absolutely not! By no means discard anything that is still useful and that might have to be replaced. On the other hand, rubber tires used as boat bumpers, swings, etc., should be turned in for war uses.

HOW DO I TURN IN MY SCRAP RUBBER?

The school boys and girls of Canada are being organized, through the school authorities, to act as Official Collectors of Scrap Rubber. The school nearest you is, therefore, your best Collection Depot. You may dispose of your scrap rubber in any one of the following four ways:

When you gather up your scrap rubber and dispose of it by one of these methods, it will be used by the Government for Canada's War Effort. Do it NOW!

This advertisement is issued in co-operation with The National Salvage Campaign, Department of National War Services

Question: What kind of scrap rubber is needed?

Answer: Every all-rubber or part-rubber article must be salvaged. Here are a few of the articles you must turn in:

Old Tires of every kind
Old Inner Tubes
Rubber Boots, Hats, Coats, Aprons, Pants, Gloves, Taping, Matting, Toys
Sport Shoes (crepe soles are especially good)
Garden Hose Hot Water Bottles Stair Treads
Bathing Caps and many other articles

Question: What happens to the scrap rubber collected?

Answer: The scrap is sorted, baled and assembled into carload lots and is then purchased by the Government at fixed prices throughout Canada. The Government pays forwarding transportation charges on these carload lots, and is responsible for their allocation. You may be sure that every pound will be used directly or indirectly in the war effort.

Question: How do I go about saving scrap rubber?

Answer: Start hunting for it TODAY. Clean out your cellar, attic, garages and sheds right away. You will find more rubber articles than you expect. Start them all on their way to the battlefield.

1. Give it to the children for their school collection.

2. Give it to your local National Salvage Committee.

3. Leave it with any Service Station or Tire Dealer where you see the sign: "Voluntary Scrap Rubber Receiving Depot."

4. Sell it to a junk collector.

"A.M. Frock" Is Neat
And Trim
BY ANNE ADAMS

It's 8 A.M. and you have a busy day ahead! But being busy is no excuse for not being well-groomed—especially since you can get such pretty, modern home frocks like this one designed by Anne Adams. Pattern 4003 shows you down just at the most strategic places: the bias side sections come below the waist and give you a longer-torso effect that is charming, wearable. Do make the frock in checks or small plaids to show off this effect! A scalloped neckline and scalloped short sleeves are feminine. Point them up with tie-back! Two other sleeve lengths are optional; an all-around belt is too. To make the back view as slender as the front, a neck-to-hem panel is used. Stitch this frock up immediately for spring wear. Keep the Sewing Instructor handy!

Pattern 4003 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4½ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

Trained Men

Committee Find That Britain Is Still Wasting Skilled Soldiers

Britain is still wasting her skilled men who have been conscripted into active service, according to the Committee on Skilled Men in the Services. The committee was set up some months ago in London under Sir William Beveridge for the purpose of finding if engineers and other technicians were being used to maximum capacity.

The navy and the air force, according to their findings, attempt to use their trained men, but the army completely fails to use men according to their skill.

More than 400 skilled workers, now in services were interviewed. Only half of them were using the knowledge that long years of civilian training had given them. The fewest misfits, however, came from the navy.

In the air force, it was discovered that men were used for flying duties regardless of their technical qualifications. The R.A.F. felt that a man capable of flying was more useful in the air than doing the work of a skilled craftsman.

However, the army has already released 50,000 men for industry and arrangements are being made to make better use of 40,000 more now in khaki.

Do Not Waste Steam

British Factories Store It For Use After A Raid

Many thousands of tons of fuel have been saved in Britain's war factories by storing steam in accumulators during air raids. Although factories do not shut down merely on getting the "alert", they have to do so when the roof spotters signal that the raiders are overhead.

But instead of the boilers blowing off their steam into the air when work stops, the steam is generated into the accumulators and stored, to be used to start up the plant again when the raiders have passed.

More than a thousand of these accumulators have now been installed in iron and steel works, sugar refineries, breweries, dairies, dyeworks and laundries. All act on the same principle: the storage of energy during off-peakload periods, and the calling into action of this steam when production requires it.

Brush With Danger

Canadian Pilot Forced To Dump Guns And Ammunition To Save Crippled Plane

Squadron Leader Lyall Price, 22 years old and the flying son of Major General C. B. Price, Canadian Army Divisional Commander, recounted this story of a recent brush with danger while coxing his crippled R.C.A.F. bomber back from enemy territory.

He was constantly losing altitude since both engines were drawing fuel from the starboard tank so Price dumped his guns, ammunition and all loose equipment into the sea. His difficulties were increased by the fact a bomb that he couldn't release was on the plane's heavy side.

But he made it, coming in at an altitude of a few hundred feet for a safe landing at an airfield near the coast. Price is from Westmount, Que.

Britain Needs Metal

Tanks Made From Iron Railings Around Nine London Churches

Metal is the most urgently needed kind of salvage in Britain's current scrap campaign. It goes directly into tanks, planes and ships—500 tons of aluminum pans make 500 airplanes—or it goes back into making the nation's home machinery and domestic tools. Iron railings and gates are being torn down all over England. Owners are given compensation at the rate of about $6 a ton, although they may not be paid until after the war. The railings around nine famous London churches yielded enough scrap to make six medium tanks.

Even children are salvage-conscious. They gather bits of sheep's wool left on hedges and fences, and get paid market rates for a 50-pound bag.

To Save Rubber

Scrap Rubber Hunt Is Now On Throughout Canada

Supplies Controller Williamson called on each business concern in Canada to appoint an "aggressive, responsible person" who will organize a scrap rubber hunt.

"While Canada's armed forces and war industries are crying for more and more rubber, hundreds of thousands of pounds are going to waste in the factories and offices of this country," Mr. Williamson said in a statement.

"The scrap rubber which finds its way into the hands of the national salvage committee of the junk collector will be used in the war effort. The government is buying the scrap rubber and is undertaking to see that it is channeled into essential war uses."

In Defence Of Britain

New Impetus To Cadets In Britain To Take Up Arms

Boys of 14 may in future stand shoulder to shoulder with their fathers—even their grandfathers—in the defence of Britain.

This opportunity has arisen from the linking up of Britain's National Cadet Association with the Home Guard. The Cadet Association was organized in 1931 to correlate the activities of secondary school cadets, but its scope has been widened to include corps formed by such organizations as boys' clubs.

Boys of every section of the community now have the opportunity to become cadets, and a new impetus has been given them by the decision to affiliate their units to the local Home Guards.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40:1-11.

Explanations and Comments

Preparing for the Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem, Mark 11:1-6. As Jesus and his disciples came near the villages of Bethphage and Bethany on the Mount of Olives, he bade two of them go to the village opposite and there they would find a colt tied in the street, one that had never been ridden, which they were to bring back with them. In case anyone objected they had only to say that the Lord had need of him. That may have been the password which Jesus had agreed upon with the owners. It all happened in just that way—the colt was found.

The triumphal entry was deliberately planned. It was Jesus just appeared to the people to accept Him as the kind of King he was, though not the kind of King they wanted a spiritual, not an earthly ruler. By choosing an ass (Mt. 21:2, 5) to ride upon, Jesus plainly showed the people that he was not to be thought of as a military leader, for the horse was the animal used in warfare; the ass was the fitting animal for the Prince of Peace.

The King's Royal Progress, Mark 11:9-10. As they went down the Mount of Olives toward the city, the joyous crowd cried "Hosanna; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Blessed is the Kingdom that cometh, the Kingdom of our father David; Hosanna in the highest." Compare Isa. 62:11; Zech. 9:9; Ps. 118:26. Jesus neither encouraged nor restrained the excitement.

Mark does not tell us what happened in Jerusalem. From the other Gospels we learn how all the excitement ended, how the crowd who without the walls had acclaimed Jesus as king, within the walls said half-heartedly, "This is the prophet, Jesus of Nazareth."

Weeping Over Jerusalem, Luke 19:41-44. Where the road from Bethany bends around the southern shoulder of Olivet, the city of Jerusalem suddenly comes into full view. It is a beautiful sight. As Jesus reached this point and gazed upon its massive walls and towers, its great temple, so recently rebuilt by Herod, shining in its glory of marble and gold, his prophetic soul realized that the city greatness and glory were departing, and he was moved to tears. How great to him was the contrast between the ideal and the real! Zion, "the city of God in the mountain of his holiness, the joy of the whole earth," had become a city of formalists, of hypocrites who oppressed the poor and rejected righteousness.

VITAMIN "B" CONTENT OF BREAD

The diet of Canadians leaves room for improvement. How to get Canadians to increase their daily ration of Vitamin B is the problem worrying Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist. In the current issue of Health, official publication of the Health League of Canada, Dr. Newman gives details of how he and his associates have been working on this problem at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ontario.

"Since the wheat kernel is naturally rich in the Vitamin B complex," writes Dr. Newman, "and since the products of wheat flour constitute the most commonly used food of the people, nutritionists conclude that the simplest and probably the most economical and effective means of increasing our daily intake of these vitamins is through the medium of bread."

Dr. Newman explains that it is thiamin or Vitamin B1 which is particularly lacking in our ordinary diet, especially if white bread is used. Whole wheat bread contains approximately as much Vitamin B1 as does whole wheat flour—around 650 international units per pound. But white bread, which is commonly used has no more than from 80 to 90 international units per pound.

According to Dr. Newman, the B content of white bread may be increased in any of three main ways:

- (a) The use of high potency yeast.
- (b) The addition of synthetic B1 or thiamin.
- (c) The use of flour in which more of the B1 has been retained by a process of milling.

Dr. Newman states that in Great Britain the Food Ministry has decreed that a specified amount of Vitamin B1 must be added to every sack of flour used for white bread. And in the United States, not only this important "nerve tonic," but other nutritive elements are recommended to be added to the flour.

Canadian medical authorities however, are not in favor of the addition of synthetics. Dr. Newman explains, so that the problem his department is working on is that of having Canadian wheat milled so that more of the B1 content of the wheat berry is retained in the flour.

Some of the bolts used in the mechanism which controls the flow of water at Boulder dam are so large that a man cannot lift one of them.

Stephen Graham advocated the use of unsifted flour for breadmaking, thus giving his name to Graham bread.

CHAPTER XIX.

As Ransome drove swiftly back into Tahlankeha, he tried to think upon the problem at the mine, calmly and analytically. What was the first step to carry out?

He determined to talk with Knox Randolph as soon as possible. Knox would be at the mine until 5:30. Ranny didn't like to call at the office. The telephone call might be overheard, so he could make an appointment for tonight only after Mr. Randolph had returned to Shadwell.

Ranny glanced at his watch. It was after 4. The bank would already be closed and he would have to let himself in at the side door. He drove into the town.

Affection for Tahlankeha swept over him. What a town! he told himself; the only one in the world of its kind. Sleepy little place in the heat of the noontime, still slumbering peacefully in the late afternoon. He had passed fields of cotton and tobacco which were filled with activity. Activity which rolled the money into his father's bank's tills. A breeze had blown up unexpectedly as he neared the square, and the old trees around the courthouse swayed gossipily toward one another.

Ranny parked his car in its accustomed place and found that the conveyance next to it was the familiar old spring wagon that he belonged to Petten. Two cars down, he saw the limousine that belonged to Major Towne.

It was the Major's car that he passed on the highway. Ransome told himself, but he didn't want Tamarr to know it.

Why would the Major's car be turned in the direction toward the old mill on Whiffle Creek, even though it was still on the highway when they passed it? Ranny walked up to the side door of the bank and let himself in with his pass key. It certainly was an odd time to be getting back to his office. Miss Edie had probably given him up and finished the letters herself.

Ranny quickly poked his head in at his office. Miss Edie was faithfully pounding away at her typewriter. "Oh!" she started. "Oh, Mr. Ransome, your father has been trying to reach you. The directors' meeting—did you forget it?"

Ranny looked like a little boy who had been severely reprimanded—although he knew he just barely managed to assume that expression. "Honestly, I was so busy that it left my mind completely. But then, they didn't miss me I'm sure. Old Panty-Waist managed without me, and was glad of the chance, I'll bet."

Miss Edie muffled her giggle, spitefully. "Oh, Mr. Ranny! You do say the funniest things. Mr. Forbes insisted that I sit in on the meeting, and every time he said anything that was opposite to your principles, he glared at me, and twice he said: 'Did you take that down, Miss Edie?' I feel as though I've been through a—winger."

"I'm sorry, Miss Edie, to let you take the punishment without me. But I'll bet it was pleasant than if I'd been there. Let's see what Mr. 1890 had to say about the Georgia First National's business."

Miss Edie thought afterward that she had never seen Mr. Ranny so mad. If old Mr. Forbes would take his white whiskers and his beetling brows to Miami for the winter, Ranny shouted toward the end of their hour, the bank would do a lot more business this year.

"Oh, but Mr. Ranny, he intends to stay right here on the job. He said so. Very emphatically."

"Emphatically?" He would. Has he ever said anything that wasn't emphatic?"

"Well, no. Although I thought him a little reluctant to lend the money for the amalgamation mill at the Cricket Hill."

The words brought back to Ransome vividly that he must get in touch with Knox Randolph at once. He called Shadwell's number, and was glad that Knox answered. Ranny didn't want to go to Shadwell tonight and run into Christopher Saunde, so he asked Mr. Randolph to come to his home, Stafford.

Miss Edie had gone back into her little office, and was now pinning on her sailor hat. Ransome with his keen eye for detail saw how it became her.

"Good night, Miss Edie. I'm sorry that you had an unpleasant day."

How could she tell him that it really wasn't an unpleasant day—not any day when she could have a few minutes with Dr. Forrester. Miss Edie let herself out the door and walked sedately past the library. One of those architectural temples built by Mr. Carnegie.

The white columned building sheltered the one person in the world who dominated Miss Edie's dislike. She was the woman who had kept Edie from marrying Dr. Forrester. Florrie Patterson had been an unusually pretty girl. Too pretty for her own good, in those days. Miss Edie told herself. She had come back from the Seminary and hurried herself at Dennard Forrester, who had just started his practice.

Miss Edie, with dignity, had given young Dr. Forrester back his ring after a year of agonizing suspense. She didn't want to marry a man who couldn't seem to make up his mind.

The next 10 years of their lives wore the three of them to a fine thread of disillusionment. For Florrie really loved Dr. Forrester by now, and he was hopelessly in love with Miss Edie, who scorned him, although she wept her heart out for him.

Miss Florrie became the head librarian; Miss Edie, the secretary for Ransome Todd's father and later for Ranny; and Dr. Forrester remained a bachelor to whom every one carried his ills, both physical and mental.

Miss Edie always held her head a trifle higher, her heart in abeyance, as she walked stately past Mr. Carnegie's shrine. Tonight she heard Florrie Patterson's voice just inside the door speaking to one of her assistants. "Now, Rosalie, if you can't remember to file those correctly in the index, I'll have to let you go—"

Miss Edie relaxed a little and stroked down the shade side of the street to her room at the inn. Above all she had craved privacy. Just as she turned the corner, she heard the gate slam at the white cottage that Dennard Forrester occupied.

"Edwina," his voice reached her ears masterfully. "I need you. Get in the car without any back talk. You're going with me out to Shadwell."

Miss Edie's steps stopped in horrified surprise. "Mrs. Randolph? Oh, Dennard!" Her voice was a sob.

"Knox just called. I'm afraid I'll be too late." He opened his car door and seated her quickly.

It was the fastest ride that Miss Edie had ever experienced. She watched the speedometer arrow mount in fascination. Guiltily, she wished that they could go on and on together.

They went over the last hill and Dr. Forrester slowed down the car to make the turn into the lane up to the big white house. The flock of geese which ever seemed to haunt that lane fled in wild confusion, then stood clacking as though to prove their indifference.

Miss Edie's heart was beating slowly and painfully. She glanced at Dennard's face. It was etched with the lines of suffering that she knew he had been silently enduring. As he stopped the car Miss Edie put her hand on his. She said nothing. He reached over and clasped it for a second with his other.

They hurried into the house. Down the kitchen hall they caught the muffled sobs of some one, and Dennard Forrester guessed that they came from Aristotle. The whole place was silently waiting as though time were suspended.

Miss Edie and the doctor climbed the stairs softly.

Phoebe came shuffling brokenly from a nearby bedroom, her kinky head bowed with grief.

Miss Edie stood outside Marie's room while the doctor turned the knob of the door. It seemed that in that one small gesture lay a lifetime of devotion and love beset by dread and helplessness.

Phoebe shook her head while the tears streamed. "It won't be long, Miss Edie. Ah knows."

Like a mother hen startled out of her customary calm, Miss Edie went back down to the telephone. She had some one on the line at Stafford. Ransome had not arrived yet. She called his office number, trembling so that her voice shook. Ranny's voice sounded impatient. She could picture him with his hat on, ready to leave.

"Ranny, this is Miss Edie."

She could hear the startled sound of his exclamation, "Yes?"

"Ranny, I don't want to upset you." She had never called Ransome Todd in all of the years that she had worked for him or his father. "I thought you'd like to know though. Mrs. Randolph is not so well. I'm at Shadwell with Dr. Forrester."

Ranny's hoarse voice rasped: "I'll be there in 10 minutes."

Miss Edie crept up the stairs once more. She must find Tamarr at once. A wild thought assailed her. Perhaps they were wrong. Dennard Forrester could perform miracles.

Miss Edie prayed silently, let him help Maria. Please, let him help Maria. (To Be Continued)

Gardening

Window Boxes

Flowers in window boxes or hanging pots represent the most highly intensive sort of gardening. This means that very rich soil should be used and, in addition, a fairly frequent application of chemical fertilizer during the season. Being exposed on all sides to drying winds, a thorough watering once a day of the window box is advised.

The box or pot must have holes in the bottom to provide drainage, and also a layer of gravel, cinders, broken crockery or similar material for the same purpose.

Along the front of window boxes are planted trailing Nasturtiums, German ivy, Lobelia, Alyssum and similar plants, with Petunias, Ageratums, Begonias, Ferns, Geraniums and plants especially recommended for this purpose farther back. Shelter from the sun for a day or two should be provided until the plants get established.

Leaves Wet Soil Alone

Nothing is to be gained from working soil before it is ready. In fact, the heavy ground, according to garden authorities, too early digging is about the worst possible thing one can do. Not only is it a messy job, in the first place but the soil clays is quite likely to bake later into hard lumps, suitable perhaps for temporary building material, but not for growing flowers and vegetable.

One should curb the natural impulse to be out digging in early spring and wait until the surface water has completely disappeared and one can walk and work in the garden without getting the shoes muddy. When the soil reaches this stage it is fit to work, and not before. Good garden soil in the right working condition crumbles and breaks into fine, tiny pieces; it does not pack into lumps.

Cultivation

One can hardly over-emphasize the importance of early cultivation, once of course the soil is fit to work. A little digging in the garden then is worth a whole burst of feverish energy later on. At this time when the soil is moist it is a simple matter to get out twine and other weeds, to stir the ground deeply. By doing so we help push growth of vegetables and flowers and conserve moisture and plant food. If this essential job is left for a few weeks then weeds have developed tougher roots and are hard to remove and much valuable moisture is lost. In the dryer sections of Canada, frequent cultivation is depended upon to conserve the scant rainfall and it will keep vegetables growing steadily which they must do if they are to be tender.

GYPROC Wallboard Provides Extra Room For Growing Family

Bob—Do you realize Junior is almost eight now. It's time he and Betty had their own rooms.

There is one thing that frightens me, Bob. So many fires start in the attic—and with Junior up here all alone...

You needn't worry, dear. I'm going to use GYPROC FIRE-PROOF WALLBOARD. It won't burn!

Who's going to do the work?

I am. GYPROC's easy to use. Cuts and nails like lumber.

But Marj... how did YOU know we used GYPROC?

Oh we used GYPROC when we built the children's playroom. It's the only type of wallboard that doesn't need panel striping to hide the joints. Grand, isn't it?

Freedom Station

Radio Station Found On Top Of A High Building In Berlin

The Gestapo has discovered a German freedom radio station in the top floor of a high building on one of Berlin's main streets, the Swiss newspaper Baseler National Zeitung reported.

The newspaper said, according to the Radio Broadcasting Company, that the Gestapo had long sought the station. When agents at last found it and broke in, the man operating it jumped out of a window.

SMILE AWHILE

Life Insurance Examiner—I don't think I can pass you. You seem all worn out. What's the matter?

Prospect—Your agent nearly talked me to death before I surrendered.

Onlooker—Surely, Uncle Mose, you do not expect to catch any fish in that stream?

Mose—No, sah. Ad-d-n't expect to. Ah's jest showin' 'na ole woman dat Ah ain't got no time to fool wiv turn-de wriinger.

Fred—Here comes a friend of mine. He's a human dynamo.

Jake—Really?

Fred—Yes; everything he has on is charged.

Mrs. Braghall—Now, don't make any mistake about it—we live at our house, like fighting cocks. Why the butcher calls six times a week.

Mrs. Knowall—I know. Once for orders and five times for the money.

Stranger—Is the train from the west very late?

Station Attendant—Nope! We're expecting it any hour now.

He—After all, I'm sure there is no place like home.

She—Why, has something unpleasant happened at the club, dear?

Magistrate—What's your name and occupation and what are you charged with?

Prisoner—My name is Sparks. I'm an electrician and I'm charged with battery.

Magistrate—Put him in a dry cell.

Mrs. Busby—Wake up, John! There's a burglar going through your pockets.

John (turning over)—Oh, you two just fight it out between yourselves.

"How are you getting on in your new place, Norah?"

"I think I'm going to like it. Yesterday I overheard the mistress say I performed my duties in a very perfunctory manner. That's the first praise I've had from her."

 ated cookies while Jack Davies donated home-made candy. Included in the parcels were six kinds of cookies, two kinds of cake, two chocolate bars, one package lifesavers, one package gum, one tube toothpaste, (for overseas parcels) one package peanuts, one tin coffee essence (for overseas parcels), two bags tea (for overseas parcels), one cake palmolive soap. Millie Bubniak and Lorna McLeod addressed the parcels while Albina Scroff, Georgina Goszko and Josephine Mizera helped wrap the parcels.—Lorna McLeod.

SOLDIERS' PARCELS

On Friday, April 24, the Cameronians sent parcels to all the pupils that had reached grade VI and VII, in Cameron school. They earned part of the money by selling tickets. Cookies were donated by Ronald Collins and Bruno Rinaldi. Candy was made by Jack Davies. Each pupil donated two chocolate bars. Twenty-nine parcels were made in which there were six kinds of cookies, two kinds of cake, peanuts, lifesavers and gum. Nearly everybody in the class packed parcels. In the overseas parcels a few things were added. They were tea, coffee, toothpaste and soap. Lorna McLeod and Millie Bubniak addressed the parcels, Albina Scroff, Josephine Mizera and Georgina Goszko helped tie them up. Rudy Yeliga and Jack Gamache mailed fifteen parcels and the others were mailed on another day. The parcels for Alois Kryzwick and Danny Daly will be packed and sent later.—Millie Bubniak.

ACTIVE "CAMERONIANS"

On Friday, April 24, the Cameronians members of the Junior Red Cross of Cameron school sent parcels to each ex-pupil who reached grade six or seven in Cameron school. The Juniors earned part of the money selling tickets for the Senior Red Cross and part from the raffle of a quilt. There were twenty-nine parcels. Each member donated two chocolate bars. Cookies were donated by Roland Collins, Miss Yuill and Bruno Rinaldi. Some of the cookies were baked by Edna Morris. Candy was also donated by Miss Yuill and Jack Davies. In the overseas parcels were added extras—canned coffee essence, soap, shaving soap and tea. These parcels were carefully packed, one each by nearly every member. Miss Yuill was helped by Millie Bubniak and Lorna McLeod who addressed the parcels. Josephine Mizera, Georgina Goszko and Albina Scroff packed and tied them. Jack Gamache and Rudy Yeliga took them to be mailed. A. Kryzwick and D. Daly will receive their parcels later. These parcels are sent twice a year for Christmas and Easter. "The postage is paid by Miss Yuill.—Albina Scroff.
